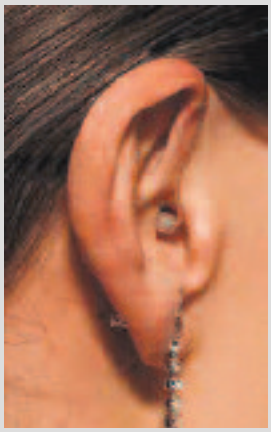
Almost one in seven people in the UK experience deafness or significant hearing difficulty, and what many people miss the most is the quality of hearing that they previously enjoyed.



However, the majority of these people could benefit from the provision of a custom made hearing aid. Many of the modern 'In the Ear' Digital Hearing Aids are now so small, that they are virtually invisible when in use.....

Here is what our customers say.....

"You give an excellent service; many people would be a lot worse off if it wasn't for the care and expertise you have."
Mrs D, Barnoldswick

"the warmth of your manner put me completely at ease and gave me confidence in not only the product, but in The Hearing Centre itself."
Mr H, Lytham St Annes

"I want you to know how much we were impressed by your skill & efficiency and especially your kindness in servicing our hearing aids."
Mr C, MBE, Thornton Cleveleys

It is time to stop feeling isolated!

As we continue to live longer, coupled with growing exposure to loud noise from modern lifestyles, hearing impairment is increasingly common at an earlier age.

Even a slight hearing loss can have a negative impact on our ability to work, socialise and enjoy life.

Common signs of a hearing loss:

- Frequently having to ask people to repeat themselves
- Having trouble hearing in noisy or busy places
- Misunderstanding conversations
- Finding that people are mumbling
- Increasing the volume on the television
- Avoiding social situations.

If any of the above sound familiar, it's a good idea to make an appointment with The Hearing Centre. We will carry out a thorough evaluation of your hearing and confirm if you have a hearing loss. Together we will determine the correct course of action.

I would like to have a FREE hearing assessment. Please send me a FREE information pack.

Window cards aim to deter bogus callers

By NAFEESA SHAN

An operation is underway to stop bogus callers targeting residents in East Lancashire.

Brightly-coloured cards, for display in windows, are being handed out to homeowners in Hyndburn as part of Operation Julius, a countywide campaign to reduce burglary throughout July.

The yellow and black cards are being used to put off cold callers, while offering residents advice and useful contact numbers to check if someone calling at their home is genuine.

Coun Brian Roberts, chairman of Hyndburn Community Safety Partnership, said: "This leaflet gives householders the information they need to make informed decisions.

"If people are not sure about the identity of callers, no matter how official they appear, then the advice we give is not to let them in."

Advice and phone numbers on the back of the cards allow householders to check the identity of callers claiming to be from one of the utility companies. It also allows people to check if their meter is due for reading.

The cards are available from your local police station, Age Concern, neighbourhood management offices, or from Hyndburn Council's community safety team.

PC Mark Bates added: "While this type of offence is relatively rare within Hyndburn, the effects that bogus callers have on their victims cannot be over emphasised."

Mummy now back 'home'

By NAFEESA SHAN

TREASURE: The 2,500-year-old ancient relic and, below, Stonyhurst curator Jan Graffius and museum staff unpack the mummy as it arrives back at the college

A 2,500-year-old Egyptian mummy has been returned to Stonyhurst College after more than 30 years.

The remains of the unidentified young boy, aged five or six, left the Clitheroe Catholic boarding school in the 1970s for testing at Manchester University and the mummy was later placed in an exhibition.

Stonyhurst College has now installed special facilities to preserve the mummy and it has been allowed to return to its former home.

The mummy, which belongs to the college at Hurst Green was discovered by a Jesuit missionary and archaeologist in 1850.

The missionary is believed to have worked at, or had links to, the traditional Jesuit school and donated the mummy on its discovery.

It has been part of Manchester Museum's world-famous collection of Egyptian artefacts and, over the last 30 years, a series of forensic science investigations, including scans and X-rays, have been carried out to learn more about the boy's health and living conditions.

But very little is known about the boy's background. No name is recorded, but investigations indicate he was from a wealthy high-status family, as gold leaf was discovered on his head.

Since its return the mummy has created a lot of interest with the pupils. The relic will now be part of a display in the Long Room, which is dedicated to the study of science, the natural world and human anthropology.

Jan Graffius, curator at Stonyhurst College, said: "Human remains are not like any other museum object and need to be treated with respect and dignity.

"We can learn a great deal about our own past from them, but we should never forget that they were once living human beings like ourselves and treat their remains accordingly. That is why the case containing the mummy has a cloth cover."

IT'S SHOW TIME!

IT'S show time in Accrington this Saturday, with a summer festival of activities and entertainment for all the family.

The fun day takes place at Accrington and Rossendale College and is the first to be organised by the Lancashire Telegraph and its sister paper Asian Image.

It's hoped that thousands of people will come along to enjoy the array of events on the show field — there's no charge for admittance and lots to see and do.

Live music will be provided throughout the day by three local bands, while the youngsters will be able to enjoy a bouncy castle and inflatable games, a children's fun fair, face painting and climbing wall.

There will be host of stands including local food produce , while visitors will also be able to watch demonstrations of freestyle dance and performing arts.

The Army will be on hand, as well as the Fire, Police and Ambulance services. Health checks will be available, alongside hair and beauty demonstrations.

For fans of both two and four wheels, there will be motorbike, scooter and car showrooms, so you can browse the latest models, or you can take the opportunity to be photographed with a Lamborghini supercar, which is also set to make an appearance.

Other highlights include a beat the keeper football game, have a go at archery, fashion catwalk, ponies, owls and birds.

When it's time to eat there is a barbecue and a host of mobile catering facilities.

The festival takes place from 11am until 4pm and the college has arranged a free shuttle bus between Accrington town hall to the show field through the day.

THE three local bands playing their own brand of live music through the day are Sabre, Something Else and The Volantes.

Sabre comprises Steven Walton, who is vocalist and also plays guitars and harmonica, Mark Roscoe on bass guitar, drummer Mick Wake, who also provides percussion and backing vocals, along with Lu McIlveen, who also plays keyboards.

Sabre

Formed earlier in the year, Sabre has already built up a big following. The band covers a wide variety of songs from 60s and 70s to new chart tracks. The set list is always expanding and requests will be played at private functions and weddings.

Something Else is another band which has just been formed and it performs an array of different music, from Oasis to U2 and Blue, and The Stone Roses to Stereophonics, or The Fratellis.

The band comprises four members and this picture shows lead singer Matt Morris.

Matt Morris

The Volantes, a four piece rock band are the third to be performing at the Lancashire Telegraph summer festival.

Formed in 2004, the band is made up of vocalist Mike Stewart, Peter Lowrey on guitar, Dave Liptrot on bass and Tristan Hall on drums and each contributes to aspects of song writing.

They draw upon many influences to help create a particular style of rock that has attracted a strong and dedicated following.

Their first EP was recorded in 2006, later followed by a second a year later and will be recording their latest at the end of this month.

The Volantes

They are also planning a tour round the UK this year and producing a music video.

Booze blamed for A&E surge

By DAVID WATKINSON

Drunken people enjoying the summer sunshine in East Lancashire have led to a huge increase in hospital admissions, accident and emergency bosses have revealed.

Cases, including people falling from trees, getting in fights, or being hurt mowing the lawn in open-toe sandals, have seen patient numbers at Royal Blackburn Hospital and local urgent care centres rocket in the recent heatwave.

Dr Charles Thomson, a consultant in emergency medicine at Royal Blackburn Hospital, said much of the increase in admissions was due to "totally avoidable" injuries.

And he said the problems meant that over-worked staff, already struggling to meet targets, were under ever-increasing pressure.

Dr Thomson said around 200 extra people per week had been reporting for emergency care across Blackburn and Burnley during the summer.

On Wednesday of last week, between 6pm and 7pm, there were 37 people who reported to A&E, compared to a normal average of 10.

Dr Thomson said: "At the moment we are seeing quite a peak in the numbers of patients at our emergency department at the hospital and the urgent care centres in Blackburn and Burnley.

"There is a real issue with people going out in the sunshine and drinking too much. That then leads to accidents.

"The bulk of the additional work we are seeing at the moment is not dealing with the effects of the heat, or the sunshine, but those who have drunk too much.

"A lot of the injuries are really quite minor, but they do require attention and take up a lot of time for our staff.

"People make rash decisions when they have been drinking. "We have seen many people in the past week or so where they have drunk 13, or 14, pints and then hurt themselves. Often they are people who have finished work early, or had the day off, and have got carried away."

He said injuries have included broken bones after falls, and cuts and bruises after fights. There have also been injuries caused by alcohol-related violence.

Dr Thomson said the emergency department normally deals with around 2,800 patients per week, although that number is currently over 3,000.

He said: "Accidents do happen and, of course, we accept that, but alot of what we are seeing at the moment is so avoidable. And every summer there are problems of people having too much too drink and then injuring themselves on the barbecue.

"The message is that people should try not to overdo it. Dress appropriately, drink plenty of water and enjoy the summer."

'Glastonbury was so cool'

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Priscilla Ahn

HOW WAS GLASTONBURY?
It was so cool, an experience of a lifetime, for sure. It was muddy, but not too bad. I've never been to a festival that big before. I couldn't believe how many tents there were. Unfortunately me and my band had to carry all our gear through two miles of hills and crowds to get to the stage, but the show went really well and the crowd were great. I just can't wait until the days when I can have people carry my gear for me. And maybe they can carry me too.

WHERE ARE YOU HEADING TO NOW?
I've a couple more UK shows, then I'm travelling through Europe doing more festivals there, and then onto Asia.

YOUR ALBUM IS OUT HERE NOW. HOW IS THAT GOING?
I think it's doing well. I don't know about sales figures and things. It's been out in America for a year, so it feels right that it comes out over here now.

WHAT WAS IT LIKE THE FIRST TIME YOU HEARD ONE OF YOUR SONGS ON TV?
It was pretty surreal hearing it in Grey's Anatomy or something. I don't really watch much TV, so I'd only ever seen the clips they sent me to get my permission. The only time I've actually seen something properly with my song in was when I watched that Kate Hudson movie Bride Wars, which has one of my songs in it. That was so cool. I had to take a step back and take it all in.

American singer-songwriter Priscilla Ahn, 25, has just played at Glastonbury for the first time as part of her European tour in support of debut album A Good Day. Originally from Pennsylvania, she spent several years in South Korea, her mother's home country. Her songs have appeared in TV shows including The OC and Grey's Anatomy, and the films Bride Wars and Disturbia.

20th blues blast

By JEMMA HUMPHREYS

Blues fans are going back to the future for the twentieth anniversary of the Great British R&B Festival.

Promoters of Colne's big event, which revolves around The Muni, in Albert Road, are marking its landmark year by inviting a host of artists who appeared in the first-ever gathering.

Promising to be the best August bank holiday weekend so far, the festival brings a global line-up of more than 800 artists, eight official venues, and 30,000 visitors.

By now the names making a return will be familiar to the faithful following – Stan Webb's Chicken Shack, King Pleasure and the Biscuit Boys, and Paul Lamb and the Kingsnakes.

Guests also include Alvin Youngblood Hart, Coco Montoya, The Stumble, Ten Years After and Paul Jones and The Blues Band. Old favourites like Connie Lush and Blues Shouter, the Spencer Davis Group and The Animals and Friends round off the International Stage.

There will also be some new, up-and-coming blues talent gracing the British Stage over the weekend, including the Mitch Laddie Trio, Chantelle McGregor, the Sean Webster Band and Tommy Allen's Traffiker. New for 2009 will be a busking station for all-comers to try their luck. Festival organiser Alison Goode, of Pendle Leisure Trust, said: "We are sure this will be one of the best yet and I can't wait for the curtain to lift!"

● Great British R&B Festival – August 28 to 30. Tickets on 01282 661234. For the full-line up visit www.bluesfestival.co.uk

THE UNEXPECTED
A bloke in the theatre over three seats was sprawled out.
An usher asked him to move thought he was a drunken lout.
The bloke groaned but didn't have anything to say
"You'd better move, the play starts soon and the manager's on his way."
The manager called the police and a copper soon came,
"Excuse me,"said the copper"whats your name?"
The bloke groaned and said his name was Pete.
"Please could you sit properly and remove your feet!"
"Where are you from?"said the cop,ready to show him the door.
"The balcony,"said Pete"and my back is really sore
